How to fill a bracket

Replace every [BRACKET] with your own words.
[TOPIC] is your video's subject; the tool fills it in for you when you type a topic in the Build tab.

Where a hook needs a figure it says [NUMBER] or [YOUR VERIFIED NUMBER]. Check any number or fact before you say it. Nothing here invents facts for you.

Tick the box next to a hook when you've used it, so you can see at a glance what's left.

The 8 hook types

Question	Opens with a question the viewer wants answered.
Myth vs Fact	Names a common belief, then corrects it.
Countdown List	Promises a short numbered list.
Cold Open Story	Drops the viewer into the middle of a moment.
POV	Puts the viewer inside the scene.
Mistake Warning	Warns against a common mistake.
Nobody Talks About	Points at the part everyone skips.
Before/After	Shows a contrast between two states.

How to read an entry

8 formulas

ONE PER HOOK TYPE

When the 16 hooks for your niche run out, use these formulas. Each one matches a hook type in the tool. The lines below are examples written for this page: rewrite them for your topic and check every fact.

Question

Ask about something the viewer has seen but never explained.

Why does [FAMILIAR THING] [ODD BEHAVIOR] ?

EXAMPLE · SCIENCE Why does bread go hard while cookies go soft?

EXAMPLE · REDDIT-STYLE Would you forgive a friend who read your diary out loud?

Myth vs Fact

Quote what people repeat, then give the shorter, truer version. Only use a fact you can source.

Myth: [WHAT PEOPLE REPEAT] . Fact: [WHAT YOUR SOURCE SAYS] .

EXAMPLE · MONEY Myth: a budget means cutting everything fun. Fact: it means deciding first.

Countdown List

Promise a list short enough to finish inside your length.

[NUMBER] [THINGS] that [UNEXPECTED RESULT] .

EXAMPLE · SPACE Three places in our solar system you could never stand on.

Cold Open Story

Start in the middle of the action: who, what just happened, what is at stake.

[WHAT JUST HAPPENED] , and [WHY IT IS A PROBLEM] .

EXAMPLE · REDDIT-STYLE The text came in at midnight, and it was from my sister's ex.

POV

Put the viewer inside one specific moment, then add a small twist.

POV: you [SPECIFIC MOMENT] , and [SMALL TWIST] .

EXAMPLE · PSYCHOLOGY POV: you rehearse a phone call for ten minutes, and it lasts thirty seconds.

Mistake Warning

Name a common action and offer the fix in the same breath.

Stop [COMMON ACTION] before you [GOAL] . Do this instead.

EXAMPLE · AI TOOL TIPS Stop asking AI for a good caption. Tell it who is reading first.

Nobody Talks About

Point at the part of a familiar story that everyone skips.

Nobody talks about [THE SKIPPED PART] of [FAMILIAR THING] .

EXAMPLE · HISTORY Nobody talks about who cleaned up after a medieval feast.

Before/After

Show two states and the one change between them.

Before: [OLD STATE] . After [ONE CHANGE] : [NEW STATE] .

EXAMPLE · MOTIVATION Before: waiting to feel ready. After one ten-minute promise: showing up.

Make one formula sound like your niche

Suspense (stories, dark history): end the line on the cost, use one concrete detail, leave out the answer.

Calm authority (money, science): plain words, one clear claim, no hype.

Awe (space): lead with scale or a strange image the viewer can picture.

Warm (motivation, psychology): speak to "you", name a feeling, keep it kind.

Five-point hook check

- ☐ Fits the hook segment: about 10 words at 150 wpm for a 4-second hook.
- ☐ Names something concrete, not "this" or "something".
- ☐ Opens a question the rest of the video answers.
- ☐ Every fact in it is true and you can source it.
- ☐ Matches the first image on screen.
