

Worked Scripts

32 fully written Shorts scripts · 8 niches × 15, 30, 45 and 60 seconds every line timed, with a visual idea for each segment

NICHE	15 s + 30 s	45 s + 60 s
Reddit-Style Stories	p. 2 · The journal note (fictional story) / The note on my windshield (fictional story)	p. 3 · The borrowed car (fictional story) / The bachelorette boat (fictional story)
History Facts	p. 4 · Rome didn't fall overnight / Three things about Roman roads	p. 5 · The day after the Great Fire / Vikings and horned helmets
Science Facts	p. 6 · Why popcorn pops / Lightning does strike twice	p. 7 · Three things powered by magnets / Inside a boiling kettle
Space Facts	p. 8 · Black sky at noon on the Moon / Three things about Venus	p. 9 · Why we can't fly straight to Mars / Sunset on Mars
Psychology Facts	p. 10 · The doorway effect / Why awkward moments stick	p. 11 · Big decisions on no sleep / Left brain vs right brain
Money Basics	p. 12 · Net pay in plain words / APR in plain words	p. 13 · The monthly subscription check / Does checking your score lower it?
Motivation	p. 14 · Stop waiting for the perfect plan / Three habits for hard days	p. 15 · The ten-minute promise / The boring middle
AI Tool Tips	p. 16 · Fix generic chatbot emails / Stop taking the first answer	p. 17 · Use a chatbot without leaking client info / Same task, two prompts

How to use these

Each script is a finished example on the matching timed structure in Shorts-Script-Builder.html. In the tool, pick the niche and length, then press Load worked example to open it in Time & Edit, change it, and export .txt, .srt or .csv.

// marks a short pause (0.4 s). Times are estimates at 150 words per minute; they change with your own speed.

Use them to learn the rhythm, then write your own. Check every fact before you publish. Reddit-style stories are fictional and labeled as such.

Reddit-Style Stories

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Suspense. First person, short sentences, hold the reveal back until the payoff.

15 s The journal note (fictional story) POV · 29 WORDS · 12.0 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	POV: your roommate has been reading your journal.	Text-message style card, slow push-in
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Fictional story. I found it moved.	Two coffee cups on a table, slow pan
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Then a sticky note inside: // I'm sorry. Keep writing.	Screen shake, notification burst
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Follow for part two: the conversation.	Text card: PART TWO, arrow wipe

30 s The note on my windshield (fictional story) COLD OPEN STORY · 65 WORDS · 26.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	The note on my windshield said: we need to talk.	Bold question text over blurred party lights
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Fictional story. My neighbor and I had never even spoken.	Two mugs on a kitchen counter, slow drift
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	For months, his dog sat by my fence every evening. I never asked why.	Phone on a desk lights up, rack focus
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Then the note appeared. Under it, a leash, folded neatly, and his phone number.	Quick cuts: door, clock, unread messages
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	He was moving overseas. // Could I keep the dog?	Black screen, single line of white text
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Would you have said yes? Tell me below.	Comment bubble icon animates in

Reddit-Style Stories

NICHE VOICE Suspense. First person, short sentences, hold the reveal back until the payoff.

45 s The borrowed car (fictional story)				MISTAKE WARNING • 93 WORDS • 38.0 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Never lend your car to a coworker. Here's why.	Word OVERREACTED? on screen, then struck through
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	Fictional story. Dana sat next to me for two years.	Quiet street at dusk, slow drift
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	Her car broke down on a Monday, so I handed her my keys. Just for one day, she said.	Hands typing, then deleting a message
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	One day became a week. // The tank came back empty, and the seat smelled like someone else's perfume.	Crowded room from above, motion blur, no faces
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	Then a speeding ticket arrived in my name, from a town Dana swore she never visited.	Sound drops out, slow zoom on a glass on the table
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	The camera photo showed my car. // My manager was driving.	Reveal text card, hard cut
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Would you tell HR or talk to Dana first? Comment below.	Poll-style YES / NO cards

60 s The bachelorette boat (fictional story)				BEFORE/AFTER • 117 WORDS • 47.6 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Before the wedding, we were best friends. After, silence.	Split screen: busy group chat vs empty chat
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Fictional story, real feelings. Maya and I met in college and shared everything.	Old photo-style frame of an empty place
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	So when Maya asked me to plan her bachelorette weekend, I said yes without thinking. That was the first mistake.	Calendar pages flipping, sticky notes
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	The plans kept growing. A cabin, then a boat, then matching jackets. // Every time I hesitated, she said: it's once in a lifetime.	Receipts and to-do lists piling up
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	The night before the trip, I finally said no to the boat. Calmly, clearly, once. Maya hung up, and that was our last call.	Phone screen: call ended, dark room
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	Months later, a message arrived from her. // It just said: you were right about the boat.	Single notification on a lock screen
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Part two is the reply I sent. Follow so you see it.	Text card: PART TWO • THE REPLY

History Facts

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Curious storyteller. One vivid detail first, then the bigger picture.

15 s Rome didn't fall overnight				MYTH VS FACT • 32 WORDS • 13.2 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE		VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Myth: Rome fell overnight. Fact: it took centuries.		MYTH / FACT split card over an old map
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Most people only know the last emperor.		Public-domain painting, slow pan
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	The real story starts with money troubles. // Look closer.		Zoom into a detail of an old document
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Follow for more history hiding in plain sight.		Map fades to a text card

30 s Three things about Roman roads				COUNTDOWN LIST • 63 WORDS • 25.6 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE		VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Three things about Roman roads your history class skipped.		Countdown number card over a parchment texture
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Everyone knows they were straight. Here's what sits underneath.		Old newspaper-style headline, camera tilts down
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	First: many were built in layers, with packed stone and gravel under the paving.		Museum-style object close-up, side light
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Next: the surface curved slightly, so rain ran off into ditches at the sides.		Engraving or illustration, slow pan
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	The twist: stone milestones marked the distance. // Sound familiar?		Hard cut to a modern-day equivalent object
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Which detail surprised you most? Tell me below.		Recap list, tick marks appear

History Facts

NICHE VOICE Curious storyteller. One vivid detail first, then the bigger picture.

45 s

The day after the Great Fire

NOBODY TALKS ABOUT · 96 WORDS · 38.8 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Nobody talks about what happened the day after London burned.	Calendar page turning, title text
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	To understand the Great Fire, picture London in the sixteen hundreds.	Old map, pin drops on the place
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	First, the setting: crowded wooden houses, narrow lanes, and families going about ordinary days, with no idea what was coming.	Street-scene engraving, slow drift
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Then the turning point: a bakery fire spread for days. // When it stopped, thousands of families had nowhere to sleep.	Wax-sealed letter, route drawn on a map
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	Many camped in open fields outside the walls. Rebuilding rules soon favored brick and stone over timber.	Market or harbor illustration, coins close-up
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	That's why you still see brick in old London streets.	Match cut: old object to modern object
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Follow for the next forgotten chapter of history.	Book spine text card: NEXT CHAPTER

60 s

Vikings and horned helmets

MISTAKE WARNING · 117 WORDS · 47.6 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Stop repeating this Viking helmet fact. It's mostly legend.	Stamp LEGEND? over a quote card
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Here's the version people share, and what the evidence actually says.	Two columns: SHARED vs SOURCES
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	The popular version: Vikings charged into battle wearing horned helmets. It spread because it's simple, dramatic and easy to draw, which is exactly what makes a legend stick.	Mock social post card (no real accounts), then crumple
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	The finds tell a plainer story: the best-known Viking helmet found in Norway is a rounded iron cap. // No horns at all.	Archive shelves, document close-ups
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	Here's the twist: the horns became popular in the eighteen hundreds, through paintings and opera costumes. Now the classic image looks more like stage design.	Slow zoom on one highlighted line of a document
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	History is rarely one dramatic image. // It's usually many small details, stacked up.	Bricks stacking, time-lapse
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Which history legend should I check next? Comment below.	Comment prompt card over the old map

Science Facts

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Surprising fact first, then a calm, simple explanation.

15 s Why popcorn pops				QUESTION · 32 WORDS · 13.2 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Why does popcorn pop like that? Here's the science.	Macro shot of the everyday thing, slow motion
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	It comes down to trapped water.	Simple diagram, one label pops in
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Heat turns it to steam. // The shell bursts open.	Animated arrows over the macro shot
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Save this for the next time someone asks.	Bookmark icon animation

30 s Lightning does strike twice				MYTH VS FACT · 58 WORDS · 23.6 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Myth: lightning never strikes twice. Fact: it often does.	MYTH crossed out, FACT slides in
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Here's what's actually happening with lightning.	Kitchen or lab setup, push-in
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	What most people notice first: a flash that seems totally random.	Real-time footage of the effect
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Zoom in, and you find tall, pointed objects giving the charge an easier path.	Zoom transition into a particle-style animation
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	So remember: // tall towers get hit again and again.	Takeaway text card, bold
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Tell me what science question I should answer next.	Question-mark card, comment icon

Science Facts

45 s + 60 s

NICHE VOICE Surprising fact first, then a calm, simple explanation.

45 s

Three things powered by magnets

COUNTDOWN LIST · 82 WORDS · 33.2 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Three everyday things secretly powered by magnets.	Quick montage of household objects
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	You run into magnets more often than you think.	Kitchen counter, top-down shot
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	First: your fridge door. A magnetic strip hides inside the rubber seal, holding the door tightly closed.	Macro close-up of example one
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Next: your headphones. A magnet and a coil push air to make sound. // Without magnets, they'd stay silent.	Wider shot of example two, simple diagram overlay
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	The surprising one: your microwave. Its heating part uses strong magnets to make the waves.	Reveal shot, quick zoom
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	One principle, showing up in very different places.	Grid of all examples side by side
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Follow for more science hiding in your house.	House outline animation, follow arrow

60 s

Inside a boiling kettle

QUESTION · 115 WORDS · 46.4 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	What happens inside a kettle when you switch it on?	Slow-motion action shot, freeze frame
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Let's slow the boil down and follow it step by step.	Timeline graphic with three step markers
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	Step one: the heating element warms the water at the bottom. Warm water rises, cooler water sinks, and a slow loop starts moving through the kettle.	Cutaway diagram, tiny particles start moving
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	Step two: tiny steam bubbles form on the hot base, rise into cooler water and collapse. That's the rumbling noise, and it's often loudest before the boil.	Animated diagram, highlight the hidden stage
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	Step three: once all the water is hot enough, the bubbles survive the trip up. // That's the rolling boil you actually notice.	Back to real footage, result in close-up
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	So one switch sets off a whole chain you never see.	Domino-style chain animation
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	What everyday thing should I break down next?	Comment prompt card

Space Facts

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Awe and scale. Slower lines, let each big idea land before the next.

15 s Black sky at noon on the Moon				QUESTION · 31 WORDS · 12.8 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	What would you see standing on the Moon?	Slow push toward a planet render (your own or public domain)
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Here's the quick version: look up.	Star field drift
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Even at noon, the sky is black. // No air.	Hold on a single wide space image
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Comment where in space I should go next.	Solar system map, pointer moves

30 s Three things about Venus				COUNTDOWN LIST · 56 WORDS · 22.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Three things about Venus that sound made up.	Glitch text over a planet image
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Space is stranger than most movies show it.	Film-strip frame dissolving into real imagery
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	First: a day on Venus lasts longer than its whole year.	Surface-level render, low horizon
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Next: it spins backwards, so the Sun rises in the west.	Scale comparison graphic, Earth vs object
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	My favorite: the ground is hot enough to melt lead.	Slow reveal of the object, music swell
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Follow for more space facts that sound fake.	Star field with follow arrow

Space Facts

NICHE VOICE Awe and scale. Slower lines, let each big idea land before the next.

45 s Why we can't fly straight to Mars

QUESTION · 83 WORDS · 33.2 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Why can't we just fly straight to Mars?	Dotted line from Earth bends into a curve
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	Here's the simple version of space travel, without the jargon.	Clean diagram background, title text
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	Start with the basics: everything is moving. Earth and Mars both circle the Sun, at different speeds.	Simple animated diagram of the rule
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Now add distance. You don't aim at Mars. You aim at where Mars will be months later.	Zoom-out scale animation
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	The tricky part: fuel. A curved path saves fuel, but it only lines up about every two years.	Mission-style checklist graphic
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	Simple rules, enormous distances, careful timing.	Three words stack on screen
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Want another space question answered? Comment it.	Question card over star field

60 s Sunset on Mars

POV · 107 WORDS · 43.2 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	POV: you're watching sunset on Mars.	Horizon render, light creeping in
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Let's take a trip to Mars and see what it's really like.	Launch-style countdown text, star field
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	Getting there takes many months. The ride is quiet, the view barely changes, and the hardest part is simply waiting.	Slow drift through empty space, timer overlay
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	When you arrive, look up. The daytime sky is a dusty butterscotch, and the Sun looks smaller than it does from home.	Sky color render, Sun size comparison
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	Now take a step. With a bit more than a third of Earth's gravity, every movement feels floaty. // Even standing still takes getting used to.	Bouncing-step animation, gravity label
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	And the strangest part? As the Sun sets, the sky around it turns blue.	Tiny Earth marker in a wide sky shot
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Where should we travel next? Comment a destination.	Destination list card

Psychology Facts

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Relatable, then careful. 'You've felt this', then what research actually says.

15 s

The doorway effect

QUESTION · 31 WORDS · 12.4 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Ever walk into a room and forget why?	Doorway shot, slow walk-through, no faces
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	That's the doorway effect at work.	Label pops in over a simple brain icon
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Your brain treats a doorway as a scene change.	Simple two-step diagram
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Send this to a friend who does this.	Share-arrow animation

30 s

Why awkward moments stick

QUESTION · 65 WORDS · 26.4 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Why do you remember one awkward moment for years?	Rewind effect on a blurry memory clip
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Psychologists have a name for part of this: negativity bias.	Name card typed out letter by letter
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	Here's how it works: your brain gives bad moments extra attention. It does it automatically.	Simple flowchart, arrows animate
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	You've probably felt it when one critical comment outweighed a day of praise. // Sound familiar?	Everyday B-roll: hands, phone, desk
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	Once you can name it, it loses some power.	Label shrinks and fades
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Which brain habit should I explain next?	Comment prompt card

Psychology Facts

45 s + 60 s

NICHE VOICE Relatable, then careful. 'You've felt this', then what research actually says.

45 s

Big decisions on no sleep

MISTAKE WARNING · 82 WORDS · 33.2 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Don't make big decisions when you're exhausted. Here's why.	Hand hovering over a pen and a contract
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	This is about tired brains, and it affects nearly everyone.	Crowd from above, blurred, no faces
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	What happens: when you're short on sleep, your brain leans on shortcuts and quick feelings. You rarely notice it.	Simple shortcut diagram
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Where it shows up: late-night shopping carts and angry replies to texts. // That's when it quietly steers your choices.	Everyday B-roll: shopping cart, phone, calendar
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	What helps: name it, pause, and look again tomorrow before you decide.	Notebook, pen writes PAUSE
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	Same situation, rested brain, clearer choice.	Split screen: messy desk vs tidy desk
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Save this for the next tough day.	Bookmark icon animation

60 s

Left brain vs right brain

MYTH VS FACT · 123 WORDS · 50.0 S AT 150 WPM

TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Myth: you're either left-brained or right-brained. Fact: not quite.	MYTH stamp over a quote card
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Let's look at this idea the way a careful researcher would.	Notebook and magnifying glass flat lay
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	The popular idea: logical people use the left side, creative people use the right. It spreads because it's relatable, and almost everyone can picture which one they are.	Mock social post card (no real accounts)
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	What studies suggest: some tasks lean more on one side, like much of language. // But brain scans don't sort people into left or right types.	Simple chart outline with no numbers
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	Why it matters for you: skills grow with practice, whichever side gets the credit. That's more useful than any label, because you can try it this week.	Checklist animation, one box ticked
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	Your brain is complicated. // Be a little suspicious of anything that sounds too neat.	Tangled string slowly straightening
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Follow for more of why your brain does that.	Brain icon outline, follow arrow

Money Basics

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Calm authority. Plain words, general info only, never personal advice.

15 s Net pay in plain words				QUESTION · 30 WORDS · 12.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Do you know what net pay really means?	Term in bold over a blurred mock statement (fake data)
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Here's net pay in plain words.	Plain card, word underlined
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	In short: your pay after deductions. // What actually lands.	Definition card, simple icon
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Follow for more money basics, explained simply.	Coin icon outline, follow arrow

30 s APR in plain words				NOBODY TALKS ABOUT · 63 WORDS · 25.6 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Nobody explains APR in plain words. Let's fix that.	Jargon words fading out one by one
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	General info only, not advice for your situation.	Small disclaimer card, calm background
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	What it is: the yearly cost of borrowing. Think of it as a loan's price tag.	Everyday object that matches the comparison
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Where you'll see it: on a credit card statement, usually near the interest section.	Mock document (fake data), highlight box
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	Now you know the word. // That's half the battle.	Word stamps onto screen
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Which money word should I explain next?	Comment prompt card

Money Basics

45 s + 60 s

NICHE VOICE Calm authority. Plain words, general info only, never personal advice.

45 s The monthly subscription check				QUESTION · 85 WORDS · 34.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Where does your subscription money actually go every month?	Coins sliding off a table, slow motion
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	A simple look at subscriptions, no judgment and no advice.	Notebook and calculator flat lay
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	Step one: find them. Open last month's bank statement and look for repeating charges, line by line.	Mock statement (fake data), highlighter moving down
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Step two: name them. Write down each one and whether you used it this month. // Be honest, nobody's watching.	Hand writing a short list
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	Step three: decide on purpose. Keep it, change it or drop it. Any choice is fine.	Three labeled boxes: KEEP · CHANGE · DROP
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	The goal is simple: know where it goes.	Arrow path from wallet to labels
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Save this as your monthly reminder.	Calendar icon, bookmark

60 s Does checking your score lower it?				MYTH VS FACT · 117 WORDS · 47.6 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Myth: checking your score lowers it. Fact: depends who checks.	MYTH / FACT split card
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	Quick note: this is general information about credit scores, not personal advice.	Calm disclaimer card
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	First, the basics. A credit score is a number lenders use to judge how you've handled borrowing. Think of it like a report card, just with money.	Everyday comparison object, then coin icon
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	The common mix-up: soft checks versus hard checks. // Checking your own score is a soft check. Applying for a new loan usually means a hard one.	Two term cards side by side, swap animation
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	The question worth asking: is this a hard or soft check? Asking it out loud is completely normal, and it saves confusion later.	Question typed into a notes app (mock screen)
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	Understanding the words is the first step. // The rest gets easier.	Staircase graphic, first step lights up
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Follow for the next money word, explained simply.	Word card flips to NEXT

Motivation

15 s + 30 s

NICHE VOICE Warm and direct. Talk to one person, small actions, no hype.

15 s Stop waiting for the perfect planMISTAKE WARNING · 29 WORDS · 12.0 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Stop waiting for the perfect plan for your side project.	Crumpled plan pages, slow motion
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Here's the truth about side projects.	Sunrise time-lapse through a window
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Do the smallest real step today. // Then repeat.	Shoes by the door, hand ticks a box
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Save this for tomorrow morning.	Alarm clock close-up

30 s Three habits for hard daysCOUNTDOWN LIST · 57 WORDS · 23.2 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Three small habits that make hard days easier.	Rainy window, warm desk lamp
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Here's what actually helps with a heavy week.	Notebook opens to a blank page
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	First: write tomorrow's first task tonight, so the morning starts with a decision already made.	Hand writes one line on a sticky note
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Next: shrink the goal. One email, one page, one walk around the block.	Big box shrinking to a tiny box
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	Then finish something small. // Momentum is real.	Checkbox ticked, ball starts rolling
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Which one are you trying first?	Comment prompt card

Motivation

45 s + 60 s

NICHE VOICE Warm and direct. Talk to one person, small actions, no hype.

45 s The ten-minute promise				COLD OPEN STORY · 80 WORDS · 32.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	At midnight, I almost quit guitar. Then I wrote this.	Clock on a dark desk, pen ready
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	Here's what finally helped me keep practicing.	Notebook close-up, page turn
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	I stopped waiting to feel ready. I just promised to pick up the guitar for ten minutes.	Ten-minute timer starts
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Some nights ten minutes became an hour. // Some nights it stayed ten minutes. Both counted.	Desk time-lapse, light changing
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	I stopped asking whether I felt like it. I only asked: did I show up?	Calendar with a row of ticks
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	That one question changed how I see progress.	Single question on a sticky note
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Write your own ten-minute promise in the comments.	Comment prompt card, pen icon

60 s The boring middle				NOBODY TALKS ABOUT · 111 WORDS · 44.8 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Nobody talks about how boring progress feels in the middle.	Long empty road, slow drive-through
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	The first week is exciting. The finish is exciting. The middle is just Tuesday.	Three cards: START · MIDDLE · FINISH
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	Take learning a language. In the middle, nobody's cheering. You can't hold a conversation yet, and the flashcards stop feeling new.	Empty stadium seats or a quiet gym
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	That's a common place to quit. Not because it failed, but because it got quiet. Progress is still happening, just too slowly to feel.	Paused progress bar on screen
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	So make the middle visible. Mark a calendar, keep a tally of new words, or record one sentence each week and compare.	Calendar ticks, tally marks, notebook line
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	Boring isn't a sign you're failing. // Often it means you're finally consistent.	Steady metronome or dripping tap
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Follow if you're in your middle right now.	Road sign graphic: MIDDLE

NICHE VOICE Practical demo. Show the before, the one change, and the after.

15 s Fix generic chatbot emails				QUESTION · 29 WORDS · 12.0 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE		VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Why does your chatbot's answer sound so generic?		Screen recording of a chat window from your own account
4.0–7.0 s	SETUP	Here's a quick fix for emails.		Cursor clicks into the prompt box
7.0–11.0 s	PAYOFF	Paste an email you wrote. // Ask for that style.		Before/after answers side by side
11.0–15.0 s	CTA	Save this before your next prompt.		Bookmark icon animation

30 s Stop taking the first answer				MISTAKE WARNING · 59 WORDS · 24.0 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE		VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Stop accepting the first answer from your AI chatbot.		Keyboard close-up, fast typing
4.0–8.0 s	SETUP	Works with most chat-style AI tools. No tricks.		Generic chat window mockup, no brand logos
8.0–15.0 s	POINT 1	First: tell it who the answer is for, like busy parents or new runners.		Prompt text, audience line highlighted
15.0–22.0 s	POINT 2	Next: ask for a format, like five bullet points or a short table.		Answer reflows into a neat list
22.0–26.0 s	PAYOFF	Then ask what it missed. // Check it yourself too.		Checkmark animation, magnifier icon
26.0–30.0 s	CTA	Which tweak are you trying first?		Comment prompt card

NICHE VOICE Practical demo. Show the before, the one change, and the after.

45 s Use a chatbot without leaking client infoMISTAKE WARNING · 87 WORDS · 35.2 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Don't paste private info into any chatbot. Do this instead.	Blurred document with a lock icon
4.0–9.0 s	SETUP	Here's a cleaner way to summarize client emails with a chatbot.	Clean desk, laptop screen glow, no logos
9.0–18.0 s	POINT 1	Step one: swap names, emails and account numbers for placeholders like CLIENT A. The tool doesn't need them.	Redaction animation: names become [CLIENT]
18.0–27.0 s	POINT 2	Step two: describe the goal, the audience and the format you want. // One clear sentence each.	Three short lines typed into a prompt box
27.0–35.0 s	POINT 3	Step three: paste the summary into your own notes, then put the real names back yourself.	Paste into a blank document, edits appear
35.0–40.0 s	PAYOFF	Faster summaries, and your private details stay private.	Lock icon closes
40.0–45.0 s	CTA	Follow for more AI habits that save time.	Clock icon, follow arrow

60 s Same task, two promptsBEFORE/AFTER · 100 WORDS · 40.4 S AT 150 WPM
TIME	SEGMENT	VOICE LINE	VISUAL IDEA (structure default: adapt it)
0.0–4.0 s	HOOK	Same task, two prompts. Look at the difference.	Split screen: PROMPT ONE vs PROMPT TWO
4.0–10.0 s	SETUP	The task: a packing list for a weekend trip. Prompt one is the quick version.	Typing a short, vague prompt
10.0–22.0 s	POINT 1	Prompt one just says: write a packing list. The result is fine, but it could be for anyone, going anywhere.	Generic answer scrolls by, bland lines highlighted
22.0–34.0 s	POINT 2	Prompt two adds three things: a rainy coastal town, a carry-on bag only, and traveling with a toddler.	Three added lines glow one by one
34.0–46.0 s	POINT 3	Now the list can include rain boots, snacks and a bag for wet clothes. // Fewer edits, faster finish, and it fits your actual trip.	Side-by-side answers, second one highlighted
46.0–54.0 s	PAYOFF	The tool didn't change. The instructions did.	Text card, two lines
54.0–60.0 s	CTA	Comment a task and I'll rewrite the prompt.	Comment prompt card