WHO YOU ARE (EVERYONE KNOWS THIS)

You run Calder's Kitchen, a small local catering company. Today you are running the cocoa bar and dessert table at the Evergreen & Pine holiday party.

PUBLIC RELATIONSHIPS

- Bart Pringle: booked you for three company events.
- Avery Quill: approved today's menu.
- Jordan Ellis: today's volunteer kitchen helper.

YOUR PARTY ACCESSORY

A striped apron and a tea towel over your shoulder. No full costume needed.

HOW THIS BOOKLET WORKS

1. Before the party, read pages 1 and 2 alone.
2. Page 3 holds Rounds 1 and 2. Fold it so only Round 1 shows; open Round 2 only when called.
3. Page 4 is Round 3 and your notes: keep it shut until Round 3.
4. You may help a team, but never vote for yourself.

THE CASE (EVERYONE KNOWS THIS)

At 4:15 pm Bart Pringle, VP of Sales, opened a Secret Santa gift: a tin of peppermint fudge. About twenty minutes later Bart collapsed. Every gift had waited on the side-hallway table, and ten people are suspects.

YOUR EVENING AT A GLANCE

1. Arrive wearing your accessory and name tag.
2. Detective Holloway reads Script 1.
3. Three Rounds: reveal, ask, mission.
4. Ballots, then the big reveal.

You are innocent. You did not harm Bart, but you do have something to hide.

Your private background

KEEP IT QUIET

YOUR STORY

You started Calder's Kitchen with one van and a very good gingerbread recipe. Corporate parties pay the bills.

YOUR SECRET: DO NOT REVEAL IT UNTIL A ROUND TELLS YOU TO

Bart has refused to pay your last invoice, $1,800 for the summer picnic, and has been telling other companies that Calder's Kitchen is "unreliable." You only took today's job because Avery asked you so nicely.

WHERE YOU WERE AT 3:35–3:50 PM

During the toast you were in the kitchen piping whipped cream onto cocoa cups with Jordan Ellis, the volunteer helper. You never left.

YOUR GOAL TONIGHT

Keep the unpaid invoice quiet until Round 3, prove your desserts were safe, and help the teams solve the case.

GUESTS MAY ASK YOU

Guest cards don't name you directly, but anyone may chat with you. Answer from pages 1–2 and the Rounds you have opened so far.

How to play this booklet: open each Round (page 3: Rounds 1–2, page 4: Round 3) only when Detective Holloway calls it.

BEFORE THE PARTY, CHECK OFF

- ☐ I know my alibi for 3:35–3:50 pm by heart.
- ☐ I have my party accessory ready.
- ☐ I have NOT peeked at pages 3–4.

NOTES BEFORE THE PARTY

Rounds 1 & 2

DREW CALDER · OPEN ONLY WHEN CALLED

❄ Round 1

Read only when Detective Holloway starts Round 1

REVEAL

- Your dessert menu has no fudge. Avery asked you to drop it this year.
- During the toast you were in the kitchen with Jordan Ellis, piping whipped cream onto cocoa cups.
- Around 3:38 pm, through the kitchen door window, you saw someone walk quickly toward the side hallway. You didn't see a face.

ASK

Ask Avery Quill: "Why did you take fudge off my menu?"

MISSION

Ask three people for their favorite cocoa topping and announce the winner.

IF ACCUSED

"Everything I served came from my kitchen. Fudge wasn't even on my menu."

✂ Fold here. Keep Round 2 folded under until Detective Holloway calls Round 2.

❄ Round 2

Read only when Detective Holloway starts Round 2

REVEAL

- The peppermint-striped tin is from Maple Street Bakery. You know their tins; you never buy from them.
- Bart owed you money. Say only that Bart was "a difficult client."
- Every dessert on your table was eaten by dozens of guests, and nobody else felt ill.

ASK

Ask Rowan Pike: "Who approves payments to suppliers like me?"

MISSION

Find someone who has never tried gingerbread and describe it like a food critic.

IF ACCUSED

"If I wanted to hurt Bart, would I do it at a party I'm catering? My business would be finished."

NOTES: WHO SAID WHAT?

[illegible]

Round 3

DREW CALDER · OPEN ONLY WHEN CALLED

 Stop. Keep this page folded shut until Detective Holloway calls Round 3.

❄ Round 3

Read only when Detective Holloway starts Round 3

REVEAL

- Admit your secret: Bart refused to pay your $1,800 invoice and badmouthed your business.
- Rowan Pike once told you Finance “pays every supplier on time.” Funny: you’re still waiting.
- The person you saw at 3:38 pm had one hand up at their neck, as if adjusting a scarf.

ASK

Ask Kendall Brooks: "Who in Sales was angriest with Bart?"

MISSION

Bring (or mime bringing) cocoa to the team that looks most stuck.

IF ACCUSED

"I wanted my $1,800, and now I'll never see it. Where's the sense in that?"
