Choosing a Game: Questions to Ask

Use these questions to compare any murder mystery game before you buy. Write your answer for each.

#	QUESTION	WHY IT MATTERS	OUR ANSWER
1	How many guests, and could the number change?	Pick a game whose player range covers your low and high count.
2	Are the roles gender-flexible?	Lets you cast friends freely, whatever the mix.
3	Can the host play too?	Some games need a host who knows the answer; others let you guess along.
4	How long is the game: 60, 90 or 150 minutes?	Match it to dinner, drinks or a lunch hour.
5	Seated dinner or mingling?	Mingling games need space to walk; dinner games work at the table.
6	Does the theme fit the occasion?	Christmas, New Year, Halloween, a birthday or any time.
7	Is the content right for this crowd?	Check it is office-safe or kid-friendly if you need it to be.
8	How much printing is there?	Count pages per guest and the host pages.
9	What if someone cancels?	Look for a list of roles you can drop without breaking the puzzle.
10	How much costume effort will guests make?	Simple costume hints help everyone join in.

NOT SURE YET?

Enter your guest count and occasion in the Host Planner file. Its Game match section suggests a Clue & Candle game that fits your group.
