

Start here

Type your 3 things and routines once, then print 1, 7, 14 or 30 ADHD-friendly pages that are already filled in. It is one file that runs in your web browser. No account, no app, no internet needed.

What is in your download

ADHD-Daily-Plan-Maker.html	The tool. Open it in your browser.
Start-Here.pdf	This guide (4 pages).
examples/Example-7-Day-Pack_Letter.pdf	12 example pages made with the tool (US Letter).
examples/Example-7-Day-Pack_A4.pdf	The same 12 pages in A4.

Unzip the download first (double-click the ZIP on Windows or Mac; on iPad, tap it in the Files app). Keep the HTML file somewhere you can find again, like Documents.

Open the tool

Windows

Double-click ADHD-Daily-Plan-Maker.html. It opens in your default browser (Edge or Chrome). To pick a browser, right-click the file › Open with.

Mac

Double-click the file. It opens in Safari or your default browser. To pick one, Control-click › Open With.

iPad

Save the HTML file to the Files app. Tap it, then tap the Share button › open it in Safari. Read the iPad note in “Your data and backups” before you rely on saving.

Chromebook

Open the Files app, find the file in Downloads and double-click it. It opens in Chrome.

What you will see. Six tabs along the top, your form on the left and a live print preview on the right. The preview is exactly what prints.

Your first week in 5 minutes

1. Add 3 routines. In the Daily Top 3 tab, scroll to Routines. Type a name (for example “Meds + water”), pick Morning, Afternoon or Evening, and tap the weekdays it happens. Up to 12 routines.
2. Pick how many pages. Under “How many pages?” tap 7. You can choose 1, 7, 14 or 30.
3. Choose Day 1 or a start date. Leave the date empty to get undated pages (“Day 1 ... Day 7”) and tell the tool which weekday Day 1 is. Or enter a start date to print the weekday and date on each page, like “Mon 12 Oct”.
4. Type tasks if you want. Use < > to move between days and type up to 3 things plus a first tiny step. Leave them blank to write by hand. Your routines print on every page by themselves.
5. Print. Choose Letter or A4, then tap Print / Save as PDF. Check the print settings below once.

Tip: tick “Also print one of each other page” to add a Weekly Plan, Dopamine Menu, Habit Tracker, Low-Energy Day and Brain Dump page after your daily pages. That is how the example packs were made.

The 6 page makers (tabs)

Tab	What it prints
Daily Top 3	3 task boxes with first tiny step, “If I only do one”, Morning / Afternoon / Evening with your routines, Carry forward. 1, 7, 14 or 30 pages.
Brain Dump	Paste a list, sort each line into Today, Later or Drop. “Send Today to Daily Top 3” moves the first 3 Today lines onto a daily page.
Weekly Plan	This week’s 3, one row per day, your routines by weekday.
Dopamine Menu	Appetizers, Mains, Sides, Desserts. Up to 8 items each, comes with 24 examples you can delete.
Habit Tracker	Up to 8 habits × 31 days, with a “Never miss twice” reminder.
Low-Energy Day	The smallest version of each routine, for heavy days.

Print settings (check once)

In the print window, set these three things. Every generated page then fits on exactly one sheet.

Browser	Paper size	Scale	Headers and footers
Chrome / Edge	More settings › Paper size: Letter or A4 (same as the tool)	Default or 100%	More settings › untick “Headers and footers”
Safari (Mac)	Paper Size: US Letter or A4	100%	Untick “Print headers and footers”
Safari (iPad)	Printer options › Paper size	100%	Not printed by default
Firefox	Paper size: Letter or A4	100%	More settings › untick “Print headers and footers”

To keep a file instead of printing, choose Save as PDF as the printer. Pages are black and one light gray, so they print fine in black and white. Keep “Background graphics” on if you want the light gray Carry forward strip.

Your data and backups

Where it is saved

Everything you type (tasks, routines, menu, habits) is saved automatically in this browser on this device, using the browser’s local storage. Nothing is uploaded and there is no account. The pill at the top says “Saved in this browser”.

Because it lives in one browser, a different browser or device starts empty. Clearing your browsing data can also erase it. That is why there is a backup button.

Export backup

Tap Export backup at the top. A small file named like adhd-plan-backup-2026-10-12.json is downloaded. Keep it in a cloud folder or email it to yourself.

Import backup

On a new browser or device, open the tool, tap Import backup and pick the .json file. Everything comes back. Importing replaces what is in the tool now.

iPad note

When an HTML file is opened from the Files app, Safari may not keep local storage between visits. If the pill turns orange (“Not saved here”) or your routines are gone next time, use Export backup after each change and Import backup when you open the tool again. Printing works normally either way.

Clear all

Clear all deletes everything saved in this browser. It always asks you to confirm first. Export a backup before you use it.

Quick fixes

If this happens	Do this
A page spills onto a second sheet	Set the paper size in the print window to the same size as the tool (Letter or A4) and the scale to 100%.
The page has a URL or date printed at the top	Turn off “Headers and footers” in the print window (see the table above).
A routine is missing on some days	Check its weekday circles (M T W T F S S). Without a start date, routines follow the weekday you picked for Day 1.
A routine shows as “+1 more routine”	One time block has more routines than fit. Move one to another block, or use Normal text size.
My things are on the wrong day	Tasks belong to the day shown in the green bar (◀ Day 1 of 7 ▶). Move to the right day, then type.
