

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

The Guest of Honor

LEAD DETECTIVE

“Everyone came to celebrate you. Now they need you to solve a mystery.”

Your character: The person this whole weekend celebrates. Cece was planning their wedding. Tonight the Guest of Honor is the Lead Detective and gets the final word.

What to wear: something blue: a blue dress, a blue tie, a blue scarf, a pocket square or simply blue earrings.

LEAD DETECTIVE

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Blair Ashdown

PERSON OF HONOR

“You made a color-coded binder for this weekend. The weekend did not read it.”

Your character: The Guest of Honor’s best friend since college and the keeper of the color-coded binder. Planned this weekend with Cece.

What to wear: a pale blue sundress, a pearl hair clip and a clipboard you never put down; or a light linen suit, a “Person of Honor” sash and the same clipboard.

CHARACTER NO. 11

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Reese Calloway

WEDDING CAKE DESIGNER

"Every cake tells a story. The best ones have layers."

Your character: Owner of Calloway Cakes, hired by the Guest of Honor to bake the wedding cake. Arrived with a six-flavor tasting box.

What to wear: a pastel tea dress, a frilly apron and a cake-topper hair clip; or a crisp white chef jacket over dark trousers, a piping bag in the pocket.

CHARACTER NO. 12

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Emerson Pryce

OWNER, BLUEBELL LAKE INN

"Every floorboard in this inn creaks for a reason."

Your character: Third-generation innkeeper of Bluebell Lake Inn. Knows every creaky floorboard and served the welcome tea.

What to wear: a soft cardigan, pearls and a ring of old brass keys; or a tweed waistcoat, rolled sleeves and the same ring of keys.

CHARACTER NO. 13

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Finley Marsh

WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHER

"If it isn't photographed, did it even happen?"

Your character: Cece's photographer for six years. Never more than an arm's length from a camera.

What to wear: a black jumpsuit, comfy shoes and a camera strap; or a dark suit, a many-pocket vest and a camera around your neck.

CHARACTER NO. 14

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Dakota Lane

FLORIST

"Every flower means something. Choose carefully."

Your character: Brought in by Cece to fill the inn with cornflowers, white roses and blue hydrangeas.

What to wear: a floral midi dress with gardening gloves tucked in the belt; or a linen shirt, suspenders and a cornflower in the buttonhole.

CHARACTER NO. 15

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Kendall Brooks

GOWN & SUIT DESIGNER

"Measure twice, cut once, gossip constantly."

Your character: Designed the Guest of Honor's celebration outfit. Travels with three garment bags and a sewing kit.

What to wear: a statement dress and a pincushion bracelet; or a tailored suit with a tape measure around your neck.

CHARACTER NO. 16

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Remy Okafor

DJ

"There's a song for every mood, even 'suspicious silence.'"

Your character: Booked by the Guest of Honor to DJ the wedding. Setting up speakers on the lakeside terrace.

What to wear: a sequin top, bright sneakers and headphones around your neck; or a bold-colored blazer, a tee and headphones around your neck.

CHARACTER NO. 17

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Tatum Reyes

RIVAL WEDDING PLANNER

"Behind every perfect wedding is a planner nobody thanks."

Your character: Runs Reyes Events across the lake. Invited by the Guest of Honor's family for the weekend.

What to wear: a sharp wrap dress and a tote full of business cards; or a crisp pantsuit and a tote full of business cards.

CHARACTER NO. 18

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Shiloh Park

CECE'S ASSISTANT

"I know where every place card goes. And why."

Your character: Cece's assistant for three years. Runs Cece's schedule, planner and errands.

What to wear: a neat blouse, a headset and two phones; or a slim blazer, a headset and two phones.

CHARACTER NO. 19

DATE _____ TIME _____ PLACE _____ RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Marlowe Gray

ETIQUETTE COLUMNIST

"There is a correct fork for every occasion. Including this one."

Your character: Writes the etiquette column "Ask Marlowe." Covering the weekend with the Guest of Honor's blessing.

What to wear: a vintage tea dress, gloves and reading glasses; or a bow tie, a waistcoat and reading glasses.

CHARACTER NO. 20

DATE TIME PLACE RSVP

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Peyton Lowe

SIBLING OF THE GUEST OF HONOR'S PARTNER

"Someone in this family has to read the invoices."

Your character: The Guest of Honor's future sibling-in-law, and the family's self-appointed budget watcher.

What to wear: a sensible sundress and a calculator in your bag; or a neat polo, chinos and a calculator in your pocket.

CHARACTER NO. 21

DATE TIME PLACE RSVP

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Hayden Cruz

MOCKTAIL MIXOLOGIST

“Zero proof. All flavor.”

Your character: Mixes every alcohol-free drink of the weekend, from lavender lemonade to blueberry fizz.

What to wear: a crisp sundress and a candy-colored bar apron; or a vest, rolled sleeves and a candy-colored bar apron.

CHARACTER NO. 22

DATE TIME PLACE RSVP

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

Lennox Bell

HONEYMOON TRAVEL ADVISOR

“Twelve islands, one honeymoon, zero stress.”

Your character: Planning the Guest of Honor’s honeymoon. Arrived at the inn this afternoon.

What to wear: a tropical-print dress and sunglasses on your head; or a linen shirt, a straw hat and sunglasses.

CHARACTER NO. 23

DATE TIME PLACE RSVP

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

YOU ARE INVITED TO

The Something Blue Murder

YOUR CHARACTER (THE HOST FILLS THIS IN)

“A celebration weekend at Bluebell Lake Inn, a famous wedding planner and one very suspicious cup of tea.”

What to wear: lakeside garden-party best, with a touch of blue. Your character booklet has two costume ideas.

BLUEBELL LAKE INN

DATE _____

TIME _____

PLACE _____

RSVP _____

A clean, cozy whodunit. No acting experience needed: your booklet tells you what to say.

FOR EVERY GUEST

How the night works

1. Arrive in character and pick up your name tag. Read page 2 of your booklet quietly.
2. Three rounds: Something Old, Something New, Something Borrowed. Share, ask, and try your mission.
3. Evidence cards appear each round. Read them, never remove them.
4. Vote on who, how and why. The Guest of Honor reveals the truth: Something Blue.

Innocent characters may dodge questions about their secrets until the booklet says to share. Only the person responsible may lie outright. No drinking games, nothing scary: just tea, talk and a twist.

Text Invitation

COPY · PASTE · SEND

Copy this into an email or group chat. Swap in your details, then send each guest their character name and booklet number (or the booklet PDF itself; it reads fine on a phone).

GROUP MESSAGE

You're invited to The Something Blue Murder, a cozy murder mystery party to celebrate [Guest of Honor's name]!

It's a celebration weekend at Bluebell Lake Inn. At the welcome tea, star wedding planner Celestine "Cece" Marchbanks sipped from the Guest of Honor's heirloom blue teacup... and never woke up. Everyone had a reason to be at that tea. Including you.

When: [date and time]

Where: [address]

RSVP: [by date, to whom]

Your character is coming in a separate message. Dress the part (there are costume ideas in your booklet) and wear a touch of blue. It's clean, it's PG, and nobody has to act: your booklet tells you what to say. Bring your best detective face!

PRIVATE MESSAGE TO EACH GUEST

Hi [name]! At The Something Blue Murder you'll play [character name], [role] (booklet No. [number]). I'll hand you your booklet at the door, or I'm attaching it now. Please only read page 1 for now; it has your costume ideas. Pages 2–4 wait for the party!

HOST TIP

Send the Guest of Honor's message last, with booklet 10, and tell them: "You're the Lead Detective tonight."